"In my spare time I enjoy writing/journaling, spending time with family, nature, hiking, swimming, biking, amateur photography, and helping others with their ancestry/heritage discovery."

Miss Christie's Teaching Philosophy:

"I find great joy in working with and helping the young child to discover his/her own interests. Exposure to a wide variety of musical instruments, genres and cultures will help build each child's character, along with helping to shape his/her own unique personality. Children will learn and absorb information at their own pace, and in their own special way. Understanding this concept- along with much patience and nurturing kindness from the teacher- will create an atmosphere in which the child can feel comfortable enough to speak aloud in a group setting, engaged enough to learn, and have a curious and fun interest while doing so."
