Guidelines for Developmentally Appropriate Practice and Planning

These guidelines are designed to give both lead teachers and all caregivers a specific framework for providing developmentally appropriate structure, activity and support for the age group(s) that they may work with and to facilitate proper growth in all appropriate areas for all children.

Guidelines are intended to build on each other in a scaffolding manner. Therefore, the hope is that children will be aware and capable of understanding concepts from the infancy section and forward. A child of three years old will have unique developmental goals for his or her age group, but will also be expected to have learned concepts listed from previous age groups. If not, lead teachers may want to consider planning activities or accommodating growth when possible for individual students, based on goals from earlier age groups, or whatever age the child's ability level is. This criterion will be valuable to include in portfolios or assessment.

LEAD TEACHER EXPECTATIONS: It is expected that Joyful Noise lead teachers understand and use these classroom goals directly when planning all activities for their classrooms, to make sure that all academic and developmental areas are addressed and intentionally considered. When developing lessons and activities for the classroom, teachers should refer to the developmental and classroom goals to ensure that all facets of early childhood development are being reflected on and planned for.

ALL STAFF AND VOLUNTEER EXPECTATIONS: It is expected that all employees and volunteers of Joyful Noise understand the developmental and classroom goals that apply to the age group(s) they may work with. It is anticipated that assistant and volunteer teachers will support the appropriate lesson plans of lead teachers in order to facilitate growth in all areas considered. All staff will consider these guidelines in everyday interactions with students and maintain developmentally appropriate practice in the classroom at all times.
