

Dear Infant Parents,

January 2012

Happy 2012!! We are looking forward to more learning and fun in the New Year. I want to begin by extending a special thanks to all of you for your kindness and generosity during the holiday season. We received so many wonderful gifts including: gift cards, batteries, wipes, soft tissue for delicate noses and other great goodies. Thanks, also, to all the families who shared family photos. ☺ What a great looking bunch you are! Your thoughtfulness never ceases to amaze me. Thank you, one and all!

It is my hope that we can all get and stay healthy. Thanks to all of you parents who keep your children home when they aren't 100%. Studies show that this and frequent hand washing are the principle ways to curb the spread of illness.

Our theme for January is "Let it Snow". Color focus will be on Black and White. While it's very hard to get the children outside for fresh air, I plan to bring the outdoors to them. We have at our disposal a nice double water-table that works great for snow. This way the children can experience the snow without the added cold and stuck buggies going out brings.

LABEL, LABEL, LABEL. Please label all items your child brings to school, including bottles, caps, blanket and such.

Please remember to lock your cars while in the lot and remove your children and valuables!! Just because it is a church parking lot, does not mean we are exempt from trouble. Remember: Better safe than sorry.

May God richly bless you and your families in this fresh New Year,
